

SERVICE LEARNING AND CIVIC ENGAGEMENT THROUGH HIGHER EDUCATION

ANNA MERCER, MADISON ROBERTSON, ROBERT PLEASANTS, & HANNAH BALL DAMBERG | UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT CHAPEL HILL

IS COMMUNITY SERVICE “ONE SIZE FITS ALL?”: HOW UNC CHAPEL HILL PROVIDES A SPECTRUM OF SERVICE-LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES FOR STUDENTS

ABSTRACT:

This panel explores how APPLES Service-Learning at UNC Chapel Hill provides a diverse range of service opportunities, from one-day expeditions to semester-long courses and social impact fellowships. By offering flexible pathways to engagement, APPLES meets students where they are, fostering lifelong learning and addressing community needs. Panelists will discuss the organization's innovative approach and share strategies for building inclusive, scalable service-learning programs adaptable to other institutions.

THEMATIC FOCUS: LISTENING CLOSELY | PLAYING AROUND | LEARNING THE CHORDS

BIO(S):

ANNA MERCER

APPLES Service-Learning President and Undergraduate Student at The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

MADISON ROBERTSON

APPLES Service-Learning Graduate Student Assistant and Graduate Student at The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Nashville, TN | March 26-28, 2025

ROBERT PLEASANTS

Faculty Member at The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

HANNAH BALL DAMBERG

Hub Farm Educator at the Durham Public Schools Hub Farm
