

SERVICE LEARNING AND CIVIC ENGAGEMENT THROUGH HIGHER EDUCATION

ALYSON RODRIGUEZ | UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA

MAXIMIZING TECH FOR INNOVATIVE EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING: A 3E FRAMEWORK APPROACH

ABSTRACT:

This interactive workshop will guide participants in leveraging various technology tools to innovate service learning. Utilizing the 3E Framework of Engagement, Enhancement, and Extension (Kolb, 2011), we will explore the University of Florida's implementation of Gators for Good powered by GivePulse. Participants will learn how to maximize the functionality of this platform and other tech tools to effectively engage students in service throughout their collegiate and post-collegiate years.

Laptops needed - or please make sure to bring a personal device to this hands-on session

THEMATIC FOCUS: LEARNING THE CHORDS | PLAYING AROUND | DISSONANCE & RESILIENCE

BIO(S):

ALYSON RODRIGUEZ

Alyson Rodriguez has 24 years of experience serving students, families, faculty/staff, and community partners across the PK-20 landscape. She has her BSBA in Finance from the University of Florida and her MEd. in Educational Leadership from Florida Atlantic University. Alyson began her career as a K-12 teacher serving stakeholders as an Academic Coach, Math, Data, & Technology Specialist, District Administrator, and Assistant Principal. She then left to pursue the private sector owning several small education-based businesses before returning to the University of Florida where she now works as a Coach and Database Administrator at the Brown Center for Leadership & Service.

Nashville, TN | March 26-28, 2025